OVERVIEW

Mike Lovatt is a UK virtuoso trumpeter, recording artist, sought after teacher and musical director who is internationally recognized for his wide ranging stylistic ability. He is Principal Trumpet of the Grammy nominated John Wilson Orchestra, the BBC Big Band, Superbrass, Andrew Cottey's Dreamtown Orchestra and is featured as soloist on many film scores including most recently Marvel's 'Avengers Endgame' and the Judy Garland Bio Pic 'Judy'.

EDUCATOR

Mike is Professor of Trumpet at The Royal Academy of Music and was proud to be awarded the prestigious position of The Derek Watkins' Chair of Trumpet which he has held since 2013. He is also Professor at The Royal College of Music, Associate Artist at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland and visiting Professor at the Royal Welsh and the Birmingham Conservatoires. Reaching out to young players through master classes and directing brass projects forms an essential part of Mike's working life.

Influenced by the great Kenny Baker and Uan Rasey amongst others, Mike's career encompasses many musical styles. He was awarded the Jon Kelly Jazz Scholarship whilst studying and in his early career established himself as a principal trumpet in London's West End performing in countless shows. Most recently he played lead trumpet in the celebrated production of 42nd Street which was filmed for global streaming and British cinemas.

COLLABORATIONS

Some deserve special mention. In 2019 Mike was privileged to work with at the Edinburgh International Festival under Sir John Elliot Gardner performing West Side Story. Mike regularly works with the multi-talented Seth MacFarlane in the recording studio and in concert with the Pacific Symphony Orchestra, National Symphony Orchestra Washington DC and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Most memorably Mike worked alongside the late Jessye Norman performing the Sacred Music of Duke Ellington along with colleagues Mark Markham, Ron Carter and Grady Tate. Mike also appeared as part of a duo with Ms Norman at the Tate gallery in London, and toured with her extensively to Carnegie Hall, throughout Europe and the Montreux Jazz Festival where the legend Quincy Jones commented "great chops Mike."

In 2018 Mike recorded his first solo album with the 2018 British Champions, Foden's Band. The album entitled '56 Degrees North' was awarded British bandsmen solo CD of the year. and has recently been nominated for Brass Band World solo CD of 2019.
